

Figure 2. Eyeworms (left) and cecal worms continue to receive scrutiny by researchers as to their possible impacts on quail populations in the Rolling Plains. These eyeworms (22) and cecal worms (approx. 250) were recovered from a single bobwhite. The nickel is used for purpose of scale; these worms are not microscopic in size.